

Unitatea 1:

INFORMAȚIA, INFORMATICA ȘI INFORMATIZAREA

Evaluare:

1. Relatați despre rolul informaticii în domeniul activității umane.

2. Traduceți următoarele enunțuri din limba engleză în limba română:

1. Informatics is a relatively new science; it was recognized as a separate science only in 1970.
2. Informatics is the science of methods for obtaining, storing, processing, transmitting, and using information.
3. Informatics includes disciplines related to information processing using computing machines.
4. Information intended for processing is called data.
5. The main features of modern information technologies are computer-based information processing, storage of large volumes of information, and transmission of information over distances.
6. Information technologies began to develop in the 1960s, with the emergence and development of the first information systems.
7. The information explosion is the unprecedented growth in the volume of scientific and technical publications in the world and the rapid development of information sectors in the economy.